THE FRENCH GUNS

Hasten Resignation of a High Turkish Official.

THE NEW MINISTRY VERY SHAKY.

Change May Soon Be Expected In the Office of Grand Vizier—Returned Consul Says the Whole Country From Erzeroum and Trebizond to Constantinople Is Laid Waste.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A dispatch to The [illegible] from Constantinople says that as [illegible] that the Armenian massacres [illegible] ordered from the Yildiz kiosk, not merely with the sultan's knowledge, [illegible] influential men of the palace [illegible] denounce the administration [illegible] Kiamil Pasha, recently grand [illegible] M. Cambon, the French ambassador, after learning of the two days' [illegible] Diarbekir, threatened to hold [illegible] with the French squadron [illegible] the resignation of the governor [illegible] brought about. Two hours [illegible] the threat reached the Yildiz [illegible] Diarbekir was tranquil.

[illegible] at Constantinople that [illegible] ministry will not live over tomorrow.

A dispatch to The Standard from Constantinople says the rumors are [illegible] in existence to the effect that a change may be expected in the office of grand vizier and that Halil Rifat Pasha may soon be expected to step down and out.

The run on the Ottoman bank is now finally ended. Its perfect stability is no longer questioned.

Advices received by The Chronicle from Constantinople are to the effect that a consul has just arrived there and that he describes the whole country from Erzeroum and Trebizond as being completely devastated. Every Armenian town and village is in waste. Heaps of unburied bodies are found everywhere. A Turkish official states that the trouble at Erzeroum originated with an attack on the government house caused by the torture of prisoners. Petroleum was freely used for the purpose of setting fire to the houses of the Armenians.

According to The Chronicle advices the patriarch intends to send a pastoral letter to the churches to be read tomorrow announcing the sultan's promised reforms, and counseling patience on the part of all his Armenian followers. The Times this morning in an editorial says the Marquis of Salisbury's reference to Turkey in his address at the lord mayor's banquet Saturday, was worthy of the best traditions of British statesmanship, but he somewhat failed to appreciate the rapid movement of affairs in the far east."

The Vienna correspondent of The Telegraph says that news from Constantinople indicates that even the foreigners are in danger, and that the central European powers have decided to employ energetic measures to defend the lives and the property of their subjects.

A CUBAN'S OPINION.

Thinks It Now Too Late For Spain to Offer Concessions.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Mr. C. G. Veiley, a Cuban, who has been in Spain on a mission in the interest of the insurgents' cause, arrived in New York on the steamer Veendam. Mr. Veiley gave it as his opinion that it is now too late for the Spanish government to offer concessions to the struggling Cubans, as the insurgents are in good condition and expect soon the consummation of their hopes in a Cuban republic.

HANGED BY A MOB.

Sheriff Overpowered and Negro Rapist Strung Up.

ATLANTA, Nov. 11.—Lewis Jefferson, the negro who last Tuesday night attempted a criminal assault on Miss Wilson Frobee, after having been pursued by a posse was captured and placed in jail at Homersville, Ga. He made a full confession. While he was being taken before the magistrate at Argyle for a committal the sheriff was overpowered and the prisoner taken away and hanged.

KILLED BY A BEAR.

Bruin Squeezes the Life Out of His Keeper and Eats Him.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 11. — Walter [illegible] was killed by a tame bear at [illegible] park in the presence of nearly [illegible] persons. The bear knocked him down and after squeezing the life out of him proceeded to devour the body.

A number of carpenters nearby drove the infuriated beast with wooden stakes away from the body. While the men were removing the body the bear renewed the attack and had finally to be [illegible]

Chinese Laundryman Shot.

[illegible], Nov. 11.—Lin Dock Dunn, a laundryman on South Hal[illegible], was shot and killed yesterday by the father of a young girl whom he attempted to assault. The identity of the man who did the shooting is known to no one outside of the family except Lawyer George [illegible], whom he retained as his at-

AN OPEN LETTER

From Catholic Fathers Fitzgerald and Murphy.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 11.—The affairs of the Catholic church in the west have taken a startling turn through the difficulties of Bishop Bonacum. An injunction was refused the bishop in the first Nebraska court against Fathers Fitzgerald and Murphy to force them to surrender their church property at Tecumseh. These priests represent the element opposed to the bishop, and yesterday made public an open letter to the editor of The Bee, replying to the Associated Press communication of last week from Mgr. Satolli's private secretary.

The letter asserts that when Dr. Rooker said nothing was known officially at Washington of the situation in the Nebraska church, he deliberately misrepresented the case. Fathers Fitzgerald and Murphy claim to have Dr. Rooker's receipts for a number of papers filed in the case. They demand an explanation. Concluding the letter says:

> We have received many letters from the delegate, reversing sentences against us by the bishop of Lincoln. These letters bear, to all appearances, the seals and signatures of the apostolic delegate. Are the seals and signature genuine or forged? If they are genuine, how is it that Dr. Rooker says nothing is known officially at the delegation about these matters? If forged, what are the conditions surrounding the delegation at Washington, by which such conduct is made possible? And yet, Dr. Rooker is an honest priest.

The district court yesterday refused Bishop Bonacum's petition for an injunction restraining the priests from occupying the Tecumseh church property.

AMERICAN BRIG SEARCHED.

Spanish Officers Ransack the Vessel From Stem to Stern.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The American brig Harriet G arrived at quarantine yesterday from Nuevitas, Cuba. The Harriet G is owned by Mosle Brothers of this city and trades regularly between New York and Nuevitas. She sailed from this port on Aug. 29 last and reached Nuevitas on Sept. 19, where she discharged her cargo. On Oct. 3 a Spanish officer with several soldiers boarded the brig and made a thorough search for a large quantity of arms which the Spanish officials had been informed were on board the vessel. The brig was ransacked from stem to stern, but no arms were found. The Spanish officer went so far as to demand that Captain Miller remove from below all his anchor chains. This the captain refused to do, and the officers were reluctantly forced to leave the vessel. The United States consul was on board at the time but could do nothing.

NEFARIOUS BUSINESS.

Arrests to Be Made of Persons Engaged In Scuttling Ships.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Nov. 11.—Preparations have been made for the arrest today of all persons implicated in the frauds connected with the scuttling of ships along the coast of Newfoundland. The police have in their possession a list of all persons who are supposed to be at the bottom of this matter. Upon the list appears the names of business men, middlemen, captains and seamen. The police anticipate being able to secure abundant evidence against these persons before the end of the week. The steamer Frona starts today for the purpose of making arrests at different points along the coast.

AN IOWA SENSATION.

Wealthy German Farmer Arrested on Charge of Murder.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Nov. 11.—A sensation has been caused in Cherokee county by the arrest of George Montague, a wealthy German farmer, on the charge of killing Mr. and Mrs. Schultz, an old couple, two years ago. The murder was a most brutal affair, the heads of the victims being beaten to a jelly. Montague is a brother of the murdered woman. He was arrested at the instance of a neighbor, who says he confessed the crime. Montague will have a hearing at Washta Monday.

BRITISH OFFICIALS IN TURKEY

Exert Themselves In Behalf of American Missionaries.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Marquis of Salisbury, the prime minister, has written to the treasurer of the Armenian relief fund explaining the measures taken by the British representatives in Turkey in behalf of the American missionaries at Sassoun who were charged with inciting the Armenian revolt. The latest reports from the British consul are to the effect that the situation there has improved and the missionaries consider their presence no longer necessary.

Five Women Taken.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 11.—Deputy United States Marshal S. D. Smith arrested Sallie Fullerton, Della Gordon, Eliza Cox, Belle Jackson and Mrs. Frances Davis Saturday afternoon. They are from Mercer and McDowell counties and are charged with selling moonshine whisky.

For Relief of Fire Victims.

DETROIT, Nov. 11.—At a mass-meeting of citizens held in the auditorium the relief fund, started to give assistance to the poor and bereaved relatives of the victims of the Journal building disaster, was increased to [illegible], exclusive of some independent subscription lists.

A Technicality Saved Them.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 11.—Edwin Morris and wife, who have been on trial here for the murder of their 6-year-old daughter last March, were acquitted by the jury on account of a defect in the indictment.

How the Duel Ended.

WHITESBURG, Ky., Nov. 11.—Attorney W. Pres. Dailey, the man who was shot and mortally wounded by [illegible] night, is dead.

RED FLAG FLOATS

Over an Anarchist Meeting In Chicago.

THE SOCIALISTIC LABOR PARTY

Claim John D. Rockefeller as a Practical Anarchist and Dub the Chicago University "The Standard Oil University"—Eulogies Pronounced on the Executed Anarchists—Other Meetings.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—John D. Rockefeller was denominated a practical anarchist at yesterday's meeting of the Chicago Socialistic Labor party, and the Chicago university was named the Standard Oil university. The application was made by Jesse Cox, a local attorney, in a speech during the progress of a meeting held on West Twelfth street in commemoration of the execution of Spies, Parsons and their comrades.

Mr. Cox said there were two kinds of anarchists in this country. One was the kind that looked forward to the time when there would be no government and when men would live together as brothers. The other was the kind that never counselled throttling the law but which took the law by the throat and choked it whenever the occasion demanded.

There was only standing room in the hall, and Mr. Cox was applauded to the echo. On the right of the speaker's desk a handsome silk American flag was gracefully folded, and on the left a red flag belonging to one of the German societies was displayed. The meeting was presided over by Oscar Neebe, one of the anarchists whose sentence to life imprisonment was commuted by Governor Altgeld. Mr. Neebe, just previous to the adjournment of the meeting, pronounced a eulogy on each of the men who were executed. He said that they had stood for all that was noble, and that their deaths had been a calamity to the working people.

No Red Flags.

DETROIT, Nov. 11.—A meeting held yesterday afternoon to commemorate what were termed the "murdered Chicago anarchists," was slightly attended and not at all radical in character. There were no red flags and most of the socialists remained away.

At Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 11.—Herr Most and Lucy Parsons addressed an anarchist meeting of 500 people at Milwaukee garden yesterday. Their talk lacked the fire of former days, being very mild.

NELLIE BLY

Figures With Her Wealthy Husband In a Peculiar Episode.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Robert Seaman, the millionaire bank director, and his wife, who was until last spring Miss Elizabeth Cochrane, and who was well known under the nom de plume of Nellie Bly, were the central figures in a most sensational episode that occurred in the West Thirty-eighth street station house last night.

That the marriage of the aged millionaire and the youthful writer has not turned out to be one of trusting felicity is evident from the occurrences. Mrs. Seaman caused the arrest of a private detective named Robert Hansen, who she accused of following her in a carriage. The prisoner declared that he was hired by her husband to do so. The husband appeared later, giving bail for the detective, and admitted the man's story to be true. Mr. and Mrs. Seaman were married in Chicago last spring.

BOILER LETS GO

With Terrific Effect on the Lehigh and Hudson River Railroad.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Nov. 11.—The boiler of a locomotive attached to a southbound freight train on the Lehigh and Hudson River railroad exploded yesterday at Lake Station, near Warwick. Engineer Cooper, Conductor O'Neill and the head brakeman, name unknown, were instantly killed. Their bodies were badly mangled. The fireman sustained injuries from which it is expected he will not recover. The boiler and cab were blown off the wheels and the train continued running for more than a mile after the explosion. The injured fireman was taken to a hospital in Belvidere, N. J.

Cause of Cuba at the Hub.

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—The following resolution was passed yesterday at a patriotic massmeeting in People's temple:

> Resolved, That we, as citizens of Boston and New England, unite in asking President Grover Cleveland to do for Cuba all things in his power by granting belligerent rights. It [illegible] that Cuba should be free.
> Resolved, That our sympathies go forth to the patriots of that island.

Accident on English Railway.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—An accident to the Scotch express from London at St. Neots, eight miles southwest of Huntingdon, on the Great Northern railway, caused by the breaking of a rail, resulted in the death of a lady passenger. Five persons were also seriously injured.

Mexico's New Silver Bond Issue.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 11.—The new issue of [illegible] of 5 per cent silver bonds is merely for the convenience of the holders of miscellaneous claims against the nation, so they may convert them into security readily marketable [illegible]

SENATOR QUAY DENIES

That He Assisted Brice and Gorman In Recent Campaign.

MASSILLON, O., Nov. 11.—Senator Quay gives an explicit denial to the published report that he assisted Senators Gorman and Brice during the recent campaign. As the story goes, Mr Quay was said to have incurred an obligation to the "hog combine," whereby his desires concerning the iron and steel schedules were to be respected, and in return he was asked to help the senators who had helped him. To The Evening Independent he has sent the following telegram:

> SAN LUCIA, Fla., Nov. 9.
> I have not seen stories referred to. Any allegation that I assisted Gorman, Brice, or any other Democrat, is false and malicious.
> M. S. QUAY.

HELD TO ANSWER.

William Shafer Bound Over For the Murder of Sylvan McCabe.

FRANKLIN, O., Nov. 11.—The preliminary hearing of William Shafer, charged with the killing of Sylvan McCabe, came up for hearing before Justice Corwin. The opera house, where the trial was had, was filled with spectors. At the close of the taking of testimony the prosecution moved that the defendant be held to answer to the next grand jury and the defense acquiesced. The justice then so held him and fixed his bond at $1,000, which was given. The case will now rest until next January, the next term of court.

CABOOSE DEMOLISHED

And E. P. Hickok, a Veteran Freight Conductor, Killed.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 11.—E. P. Hickok, a veteran freight conductor on the Pittsburg and Western railroad, was killed in the western part of the city yesterday. His train had stopped at a crossing, and while Hickok was in the caboose a fast freight struck his train, demolishing the caboose and injuring Hickok so that he died an hour later. Two brakemen were caught in the debris but escaped with a few bruises,

NORTH CAROLINA PROPHET.

Joseph Hoag Foretells the Events of the Future.

BUCYRUS, O., Nov. 11.—W. E. Keys of Crestline has a document written by Joseph Hoag at his home in North Carolina in 1803, in which he predicts many things that have happened, and claims them to have been a revelation. Among them is the division of the churches, trouble in the lodge of Free Masons, war between the north and south, and the supremacy of one religion. It is a strange paper.

BLOOD IN HER EYE

Lord Sholto Douglass to Be Horsewhipped.

A BAD CASE OF MOTHER-IN-LAW.

She Avows Her Purpose of Teaching Her Titled Son-In-Law to Observe the Rules Governing Polite American Society—In a Letter He Merely Stated He Hadn't Married the Whole Family.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—A local paper says Lord Sholto Douglass, the son of the Marquis of Queensberry, who married a variety actress a few months ago, is to be horsewhipped by Mrs. Addis, his mother-in-law. Mrs. Addis has announced that she will start for Los Angeles this week for the purpose of teaching her son-in-law some American manners. The disagreement is said to have resulted from the interference of Mrs. Addis in the management of the Douglass household. Lord Sholto took exception to the action of his mother-in-law, and in a letter informed her that when he married Miss Addis he did not marry the whole family, and that he would be pleased if his mother-in-law would permit him to manage his own domestic affairs. Mrs. Addis says she will publicly horsewhip her son-in-law.

RIOT QUELLED.

Mine Boss Kills Two Men and Wounds the Third.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 11. — A threatened riot at Ishkoota mines near this city was quelled by Berry Watkins, the mine boss, Saturday night, who killed two men and mortally wounded the third. Watkins was assaulted by Louis Smith, Jr., Louis Smith, Sr., and Columbus Madden, with missiles. When they had Watkins down and thought to be knocked senseless, he emptied his revolver, killing Louis Smith, Jr., and Columbus Madden and mortally wounding Louis Smith, Sr. The other disaffected miners then threatened Watkins, when they were quelled by Watkins starting the same vigorous defense.

DEMONS IN DISGUISE.

They Strangle a Little Child and Torture Its Mother.

IPSWICH, Mass., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Asa Brown and her infant child were assaulted in their home by three masked tramps. Mrs. Brown was left bound hand and foot, while the infant child was strangled and thrown on the floor. Mrs. Brown says the three men entered and asked where she kept the money. She refused to tell them, whereupon they seized the baby and strangled it, at the same time binding her. They told her that they would torture her unless she told where she had concealed the money. They were proceeding to carry out their threat when some noise outside the house disturbed them, and they ran away, taking about $75.

TORPEDO BOAT ERICSSON

Will Be Given Her Third Trial This Month.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Nov. 11.—The iron works has shipped the new machinery for the torpedo boat Ericsson, and the trial trip will be held this month on Long Island sound should the weather prove favorable. On the first trial trip last fall a piston rod was pulled out and a cylinder head smashed. It was then supposed that the key of the piston rod had broken. On the second trial last summer a similar accident occurred, causing the death of three men, and it was then concluded that the cylinder head was too light. This defect has been remedied in the new engines.

PLUMBERS WILL STRIKE.

Pittsburg Union to Make Demand For 10 Per Cent Advance.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 11.—The Plumbers' union has passed resolutions demanding an advance of 10 per cent. to take effect today. The members of the union have been instructed to report for work, present their demands, and if not conceded to refuse to work. The demand is for the restoration of the 10 per cent cut made in 1894. The masters will resist the demand.

PICKED UP AT SEA.

Crew of a Wrecked Vessel Rescued by Norwegian Bark Enterprise.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11.—Stewart's barkentine Priscilla, Captain Klager, from Rio Janeiro made fast at Jackson's wharves yesterday morning, having on board a shipwrecked crew. They left Jacksonville Oct. 13 with 261,000 feet of pine lumber for Demarara, British Guiana. Heavy seas were met with, and on the 24th the crew took to one of the small boats, as the vessel was sinking even after her cargo had been thrown over to lighten her. They were adrift for three days with almost nothing to eat or drink, and sighted several vessels which passed them. On Oct. 27 they were rescued by the Norwegian bark Enterprise, from Mobile to Havana, which transferred them to the Priscilla.

TRAINS COLLIDE.

No One Killed, but Engineer and Fireman Badly Hurt.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 11.—The Louisville and Nashville officers in this city say that there was a collision between a freight and passenger train at Franklin about 11 o'clock last night, and that no passengers were killed, but that Engineer Ed Corbett and his fireman were badly hurt. The wrecker left this city at 11 o'clock for the wreck. Private information says Corbett died from the injuries received, but this is not known to be true, nor is it known whether any passengers were hurt or killed.

EUROPEAN PANIC.

40 Kinds of Shares Are Rapidly Shrinking In Value.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Paris correspondent of The Times says it is understood that only the intervention of the Rothschilds on Saturday prevented the panic at Paris from becoming positively disastrous.

A dispatch to The Daily News from Berlin says that but for the assistance rendered by the Rothschilds on Saturday, bourse prices would have closed still weaker. The panic could not have been worse on the eve of a great European war.

At Vienna, according to The Daily News correspondent, the newspapers were thronged Saturday night with people who were clinging to the hope that Lord Salisbury's speech at the lord mayor's dinner at London during the afternoon might possibly put an end to the panic. At a meeting yesterday at Vienna of the directors and managers of the principal banks it was resolved, in case the panic should continue, to initiate collective action for the purpose of preventing the further fall of securities.

A dispatch to The Times from Vienna says since Friday Credit Mobillier shares have fallen 29 florins, Austrian State railway shares 40 florins, Turkish lottery bonds 22 florins, Turkish tobacco shares 11 florins. Since the memorable collapse of 1873 no such startling panic has occurred at Vienna.

Opened With Vigor.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 11.—Senators Morgan and Pugh and Congressman Bankhead opened the silver campaign here Saturday. Webster's International Dictionary

Invaluable in Office, School, and Home

Successor of the "Unabridged."

Standard of the U. S. Gov't Printing Office, the U. S. Supreme Court, and of nearly all the Schoolbooks.

Warmly commended by State Superintendents of Schools, and other Educators almost without number.

THE BEST FOR EVERYBODY

BECAUSE

It is easy to find the word wanted. Words are given their correct alphabetical places, each one beginning a paragraph.

It is easy to ascertain the pronunciation. The pronunciation is shown by the ordinary diacritically marked letters used in the schoolbooks.

It is easy to trace the growth of a word. The etymologies are full, and the different meanings are given in the order of their development.

It is easy to learn what a word means. The definitions are clear, explicit, and full, and each is contained in a separate paragraph.

CLUBS OF THE WEST.

WOMEN INTERESTED IN POLITICAL ECONOMY AND CIVIC AFFAIRS.

A General View of Western and Northwestern Women's Clubs—Women Prominently Connected With Them—Twenty-five Clubs In Chicago Alone.

[illegible], 1895, by American Press Association.

In surveying the field of the G. F. W. C. it is [illegible] ... the [illegible] and practical lines of [illegible] western clubs. [illegible] purely literary or [illegible] clubs followed the same [illegible] in their earlier history, [illegible] has shown a great tendency [illegible] the development along lines of [illegible] investigation and political economy, including such subjects as proportional representation, initiative and referendum and the financial basis, which [illegible] evolution of the club idea within the past decade. This particular trend is especially noticeable in western and northwestern [illegible].

To speak in detail in a comparative [illegible] article is impossible, but a [illegible] review of representative western [illegible] is one of the most interesting [illegible] presented in the entire federation.

In the city of Chicago alone there are [illegible] clubs in the federation. It is [illegible] that these clubs are as [illegible] of the west as the clubs [illegible] for the east.

Among the more prominent of these [illegible] Hull House, the Chicago Woman's club, the Friday club, [illegible] the Heliades, Friends [illegible] club, the Ellis [illegible], the Society For Physical Culture [illegible] and the National [illegible] Economic association. Hull [illegible] is to Chicago what Toynbee Hall [illegible] London, and Miss Jane Addams, [illegible] and its inspiration, is one [illegible] the foremost humanitarians of the [illegible] a living exponent of that practical Christianity which goes hand in [illegible] with that rational philosophy of civilization which offers the proletarian [illegible] our great cities the benefits of this [illegible] as well as the promise of the life to come. The world has long been familiar with theoretical charity. It is such institutions as Hull House which convert these theories into practice, and the [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] and the Pleiades. The Lowell Hall club is progressive, educational, social and moral. Its president, Mrs. J. [illegible] is a cultured and [illegible] practical [illegible]. The New West [illegible] ... and has established a [illegible] committees to [illegible] such as home [illegible] growing, [illegible] local charities [illegible]

The Woman's club of Minneapolis [illegible] of all the city [illegible] work in which women are engaged [illegible] history, [illegible] educational, professional and scientific and [illegible].

The Round Table of Denver [illegible] literary and study clubs to be found in the west. [illegible] culture, and the brilliant women [illegible] present the [illegible] intellectuality of Denver. Its president, Mrs. Alice Polk Hill, is an accomplished woman greatly beloved by the club. Her literary attainments are of a high order, and her [illegible] western life was [illegible] with great success this fall.

The Peoria Woman's club is typically western and progressive. It is [illegible] housed in a beautiful and commodious clubhouse. Its work [illegible] scientific, reform and educational.

The Iowa [illegible] is recognized as one of the strongest in the organization in its [illegible] president, Mrs. Virginia [illegible] Berryhill, is a cultured, [illegible] capable women. She [illegible] and her personal beauty and magnetic individuality [illegible] all that is [illegible].

Mrs. L. W. Goode, president of the Woman's club of Des Moines, is [illegible] as a woman and [illegible] as a club [illegible], while the club is one of the best in the federation, displaying the [illegible] progressive spirit which characterizes the western clubs of the federation.

The Woman's club of Fargo, N. D., is interested in [illegible] literature, domestic and educational affairs and parliamentary law.

Mrs. Maria C. Weed, treasurer of the Iowa State federation, is an active, and Mrs. C. S. [illegible] of Sauk Lake, Minn., Mrs. Esther Allen [illegible] of Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. Lucinda H. THE PROTECTION POLICY
APPLIED TO A GREAT MARION BUSINESS
BOILED DOWN.

This is it—to create the greatest values for the least money. It's easy to sell at the average price. We're doing a good deal better than selling $1 underwear for $1.00—we're selling what has been known as $1 and $1.25 for many a day for 50c and 75c. You'll be told it can't be. All we say, there are hosts of folks who have had them, and it's a common occurrence to sell dozens a day.

THE BEST SPEECH-MAKERS AND ADVERTISEMENTS
WE HAVE TODAY—
THE SATISFIED WEARERS OF OUR WRAPS.

Hundreds of Jackets are on our second floor, not a carried over wrap among them, for last year's wraps we will have to take you up to the third floor, where $20.00 Jackets in cloth or plush sell at $5.00. They are just as warm, well made and comfortable, but this year's style is lacking. Hundreds of fine garments are on this second floor—many bargains, among so rare, that if we told it right, there would be no way supplying the trade.

Fur Beaver Capes $37.50 up.

Black Marten Cape, 125 inch sweep, $75.00.
Astrachan Capes, whole skins, $15.00 and up.

BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST

REV. DR. TALMAGE PREACHES ON THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL.

Lessons From a Banquet of Sin—The Suddenness of God's Judgments—A Word of Warning—An Echo of the Text.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Since his [illegible] Dr. Talmage's [illegible] experience [illegible] a remarkable [illegible]. Not only has the church in which [illegible] the audiences [illegible] overflowed [illegible] an extent that has rendered it [illegible] were [illegible] when the [illegible] took for his subject "Handwriting on the Wall," [illegible] the text Daniel v, [illegible], "In that night was Belshazzar, the king of the Chaldeans, slain."

Night was about to come down on Babylon. The shadows of her 250 towers began to lengthen. The Euphrates rolled on, touched by the fiery splendors of the setting sun, and gates of brass, burnished and glittering, opened and shut like doors of flame. The hanging gardens of Babylon, wet with the heavy dew, [illegible] from starlit flowers [illegible] half a fragrance for many a [illegible]. The streets and squares were lighted for dance and frolic and promenade. The theaters and galleries [illegible] the wealth and pomp and [illegible] of the city to rare entertainments. [illegible] of mirth and wassail were mingled in every street, and godless [illegible] Belshazzar's palace [illegible] their [illegible] deeds of darkness.

A royal feast tonight at the king's palace! Rushing up to the gates are chariots upholstered with precious cloths from Dedan and drawn by fire-eyed horses from Togarmah, that rear [illegible] of the charioteers, while a thousand lords [illegible] and women, dressed in all the splendors of [illegible] and the chariness of coral, [illegible] Tyrian purple [illegible] across the floor and by [illegible].

The Guests Assemble.

Open wide the gates and let the guests come in. The chamberlains and cupbearers are all ready. [illegible] to the [illegible] of the [illegible]. See the blaze of the jewels! Lift the banners. Fill the cups. Clap the cymbals. Blow the trumpets. Let the night go by with song and dance and ovation, and let that Babylonish tongue be palsied that will not say, "O King Belshazzar, live forever!"

Ah, my friends, it was not any common banquet to which these great people came! All parts of the earth had sent their richest viands to that table. [illegible] flashed their [illegible] tankards of burnished gold. [illegible] and luscious in baskets of [illegible] entwined with leaves, plucked from royal conservatories. Vases inlaid with emerald and ridged with exquisite traceries, filled with nuts that were threshed from forests of distant lands. Wine brought from the royal vats, foaming in the decanters and bubbling in the chalices. Tufts of cassia and frankincense wafting their sweetness from wall and table. Gorgeous banners unfolding in the breeze that came through the open window, bewitched with the perfume of hanging gardens. Fountains rising up from inclosures of ivory, in jets of crystal, to fall in clattering rain of diamonds and pearls. Statues of mighty men looking down from niches in the wall upon crowns and shields brought from subdued empires. Idols of wonderful work standing on pedestals of precious stones. Embroideries stooping about the windows and wrapping pillars of cedar and drifting on floor inlaid with ivory and agate. Music, mingling the thrum of harps and the clash of cymbals and the blast of trumpets in one wave of transport that went rippling along the wall and breathing among the garlands and pouring down the corridors and thrilling the souls of a thousand banqueters.

The signal is given, and the lords and ladies, the mighty men and women of the land, come around the table. Pour out the wine. Let foam and bubble kiss the rim! Hoist every one his cup and drink to the sentiment, "O King Belshazzar, live forever!" Bestarred headband and coronet of royal beauty gleam [illegible] uplifted chalices, as again and again they are emptied. Away with care from the palace! Tear royal dignity to tatters! Pour out more [illegible] Give us more light, wilder music, sweeter perfume! Lord shouts to lord, captain ogles to captain. Goblets clash; decanters rattle. There come in the [illegible] through, and the [illegible] and the guffaw of [illegible] from the lips of princes, flushed, reeling, bloodshot, while mingling with it all I hear, "Huzza, huzza, for great Belshazzar!"

Sign on the Wall.

What is that on the plastering of the wall? [illegible] The goblets fall from their [illegible] There is a [illegible] Let Daniel be brought in to read that writing. He comes in. He reads it: "Weighed in the balance and found wanting."

Meanwhile the Medes, who for two years had been laying siege to that city, [illegible] that carousal and [illegible] glittering knives. [illegible] king of the Chaldeans.

[illegible] when God writes anything on the wall a man had better read it as it is. Daniel did not misinterpret or modify the handwriting on the wall. It is all nonsense to expect a minister of the gospel to preach always things that the people like or the people choose. Young man of Washington, what shall I preach to you tonight? Shall I tell you of the dignity of human nature? Shall I tell you of the wonders that our race has accomplished? "Oh, no," you say. "Tell me the message that came from God." I will. It is the only handwriting on the wall. It is this lesson: "Repent! Accept of Christ and be saved!" I [illegible] of a great many other things, but that is the message, and so I declare it. Jesus never flattered those to whom he preached. He said to those who did wrong, and who were offensive in his sight, "[illegible] generation of vipers! [illegible] how can ye escape the damnation of hell?" Paul the apostle preached before a man who was not [illegible] What subject did he take? Did he say, "Oh, you are a good man, a very fine man, a very noble man"? No. He preached of righteousness to a man who was unrighteous, of temperance to a man who was a victim of bad appetites, of the judgment to come to a man who was unfit for it. So we must always declare the message that happens to come to us. [illegible] James I of England, who was James VI of Scotland. What subject did he take? The king was noted all over the world for being unsettled and vacillating in his ideas. What did the minister preach about to this man who was James I of England and James VI of Scotland? He took for his text James i, 6, "He that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed." Hugh Latimer [illegible] the king [illegible] he preached, and the king said, "Hugh Latimer, come and apologize." "I will," said Hugh Latimer. So the day was appointed, and the king's chapel was full of lords and dukes and the mighty men and women of the country, for Hugh Latimer was to apologize. He began his sermon by saying: "Hugh Latimer, bethink thee! Thou art in the presence of thine earthly king, who can destroy thy body. But bethink thee, Hugh Latimer, that thou art in the presence of the King of heaven and earth, who can destroy both body and soul in hell fire." Then he preached with appalling directness at the king's crimes.

A Ghastly Banquet.

Another lesson that comes to us to-night—there is a great difference between the opening of the banquet of sin and its close. Young man, if you had looked in upon the banquet in the first few hours, you would have wished you had been invited there and could sit at such a feast. "Oh, the grandeur of Belshazzar's feast!" you would have said. But just look in at the close of the banquet, and your blood curdles with horror. The king of terrors has there a ghastly banquet. [illegible] of a king in the earth. It has crowned itself. It has spread a banquet. It invites all the world to come to it. [illegible] banquet [illegible] of all nations. It has gathered [illegible] It has strewn from [illegible] wealth the tables and floors and [illegible] And yet how often is that banquet broken up and how horrible is its end! Ever and anon there is a handwriting on the wall. A king falls. A great [illegible] knock together. [illegible] breaks in upon the [illegible] and that night is Belshazzar, the king [illegible] slain.

Here is a young man who says: "I cannot see why they make such a fuss about the intoxicating cup. Why, it is exhilarating! It makes me feel well. I can talk better, think better, feel better. I cannot see why people have such a prejudice against it." A few years pass on, and he wakes up and finds himself in the clutches of an evil habit which he tries to break, but cannot, and he cries out, "O Lord God, help me!" It seems as though God would not hear his prayer, and in an agony of body and soul he cries out, "It biteth like a serpent, and it stingeth like an adder." How bright it was at the start! How black it was at the last!

Here is a man who begins to read French novels. "They are so charming," he says. "I will go out and see for myself." [illegible] often seen the same thing illustrated. Here is a young man just come from college. He is kind. He is loving. He is enthusiastic. He is eloquent. By one stroke he may bound to heights toward which many men have been struggling for years. A profession opens before him. He is established in the law. His friends cheer him. Eminent men encourage him. After awhile you may see him standing in the American senate or moving a popular assemblage by his eloquence, as trees are moved in a whirlwind. Some night he retires early. [illegible] Delirium, like a [illegible] Fathers and mothers stand by [illegible] going out to [illegible] The banquet is ended. The lights of thought and [illegible] are being extinguished. The garlands are snatched from [illegible] brow. The vision is gone. Death at the banquet!

[illegible]

We saw the same thing on a larger scale [illegible] in our civil war. Our [illegible] had been feasting at a national banquet—north, south, east and west. What grain was there but we grew it on our hills? What invention was there but our cities must turn the new wheel [illegible] Suddenly [illegible] What meant those [illegible] up at Chickamauga, [illegible] Atlanta, Gettysburg, South Mountain? What meant those golden [illegible] Why [illegible] lakes of blood [illegible] on the wall! The nation had been weighed and found wanting. [illegible] at the banquet.

I have also to learn from the subject that the [illegible] God will be very sudden. The wave of mirth had dashed [illegible] It was unexpected. [illegible] comes the [illegible] God and defy [illegible] He was at the [illegible] was confined [illegible] morning was bright; [illegible] on the waters; [illegible] on the hills, [illegible] over the Andes [illegible]

The Red sea was divided. The Egyptians [illegible] it. There could be [illegible] The Israelites had just gone through. Where they had gone, why not the Egyptians? Oh, it was such a beautiful walking place! A pavement of tinged shells and pearls, and on either side two great walls of water—solid. [illegible] Forward, great host of the Egyptians! Clap the cymbals and blow the trumpets of victory! After them! We'll catch them yet, and they shall be destroyed. But the walls began to tremble! They rock! They fall! The rushing waters! The shriek of drowning men! The swimming of the war horses in vain for the shore! The strewing of the great host on the bottom of the sea, or pitched by the angry wave on the beach—a battered, bruised and loathsome wreck! Suddenly destruction came. Oh, half hearted [illegible] not have [illegible] Destroyed, and without remedy.

I am just setting forth a fact, which you have noticed as well as I. Ananias came to the apostle. The apostle says, "Did you sell the land for so much?" He says, "Yes." It was a lie. Dead, as [illegible] fell Sapphira, his wife [illegible]

Words of [illegible]

of the words of the text: "In that night was Belshazzar, the king of the Chaldeans, slain."

Oh, that my Lord Jesus would now make himself so attractive to your souls that you cannot resist him, and if you have never prayed before or haven't prayed since those days when you knelt down at your mother's knee, then that tonight you might pray, saying:

> Just as I am, without one plea
> But that thy blood was shed for me,
> And that thou bid'st me come to thee,
> O Lamb of God, I come!

But if you cannot think of so long a prayer as that, I will give you a shorter prayer that you can say, "God be merciful to me, a sinner!" Or, if you cannot think of so long a prayer as that, I will give you a still shorter one that you may utter, "Lord save me or I perish!" Or, if that be too long a prayer, you need not make it. Use the word "Help!" Or, if that be too long a word, you need not use any word at all. Just look and live!

A Born Artist.

Sir Frederic Leighton has confided to a contributor to The Young Woman the story of how he came to be an artist. In his youth painting was not considered respectable, and Sir Frederic's parents shared, in some degree, in that strange prejudice, but during a sojourn in Florence, when he was about 14 years of age, the lad prevailed on his father to submit the question of his future profession to Mr. Hiram Powers, the celebrated American sculptor. He said to Mr. Leighton, "Let me have a portfolio of your son's drawings, and if you will call on me at the end of a week I will give you an opinion of them."

"It was an anxious time for me," says Sir Frederic. "I remember so well the afternoon on which my father went to see Hiram Powers to receive the famous verdict. I sat down to my [illegible] studies as the best means of passing away the time. Then came the sound of wheels on the gravel outside, and I threw down my work and ran to the window. When my father stepped from the carriage he was [illegible] that he had brought good news."

"Is there reason to expect, Mr. Powers?" my father had asked, "that my son would attain eminence if he followed the profession of an artist?" "Sir," was the reply, "your son may be as eminent as he chooses." "Then you think," pressed Mr. Leighton, "that I should make an artist of my son?" "That, sir," was the reply, "is out of your power to decide. Nature has done it for you." Pasteur made the following [illegible] 'The average proportion of coffee in the above [illegible] is just 75 per cent, with 50 per cent of chicory, burned sugar and other vegetable [illegible] in mind that good, pure roasted coffee can be retailed at 1s6d per pound, with a fair profit to the [illegible] without one-third of the [illegible] of coffee, it is [illegible] French and other [illegible] 100 per cent by [illegible] of their [illegible] compounds. SPEECH OF SOUTHERN WOMEN.

An Author Who Thinks It Is the Most Pleasant In America.

Mr. Theodore H. Meade has published a little book on "Our Mother Tongue," in which he takes occasion to [illegible] the speech of American women, saying, among other things, that it [illegible] thing, a something [illegible] remarked, when an American woman in speaking has a pleasant voice and uses it with good modulation.

"But," he continues, "there are women in America who, as a rule, [illegible] have [illegible] sweet voices [illegible] which could [illegible] and correct. [illegible] to the women of the southern [illegible] no doubt, to the [illegible] and more sonorous use of the vowels by southern women than by their [illegible] sisters, and to the less harsh [illegible] consonants. The [illegible] which plays such [illegible] in the speech of the majority of Americans, is all [illegible] by southern women, and many of them are as innocent of 'r's' as cockneys are of 'h's.' Probably, however, the musical [illegible] comes to a greater extent from a [illegible] use of the vowels—from giving [illegible] for instance, to 'a' instead of giving that vowel the sound [illegible] A southern woman would never [illegible] New York [illegible] 'sto' [illegible] nor would she [illegible] in the 'door.' She [illegible] 'doo,' and [illegible] she knows her 'r's' very well, but has little acquaintance with [illegible] 'r's.' But even the [illegible] of the 'r's' [illegible] has not [illegible] the [illegible] to them more than [illegible] A 'door' and a 'floor,' with the 'r' in each word [illegible] what rolling, seem a [illegible] different from what we should be accustomed to [illegible] the pleasant greeting from a friend, 'Good morning,' [illegible] 'r,' has in it something of the sound of menace rather than welcome.

"I have often wondered why southern women should use the vowels and [illegible] more pleasantly than other Americans, and I have reached a conclusion which many southern born women—[illegible] and other kinsfolk among the rest—will no doubt, fail to appreciate. [illegible] through training, [illegible] not [illegible] at school as girls in [illegible] states. Nor could it have [illegible] entirely by inheritance, for there [illegible] not a great difference between the [illegible] of the [illegible] and the south, [illegible] the latter section the people [illegible] homogeneously [illegible] The difference, I am persuaded, is due in a very great measure, if not entirely, to the influence that the negro has had on the speech of the southern people. Children, who start out in life with voices as sweet as the [illegible] and tones as pure as the notes of a flute, learn their first words from the nurses in whose charge they are, and southern children are universally reared by negro nurses. What they then learn gradually, and generation after generation, become [illegible] a part of the speech of the mature man and women.

"And the woman, staying more at home and coming less in contact with the big world, preserves more of the [illegible] habits of infancy than the man. Now the negro, by nature, by [illegible] discards what is harsh, discordant and unmusical in speech, and for the same reason adopts that which is [illegible] and musical to the ear. I think no one will contest this assumption who has ever heard the negroes speak and [illegible] in those parts of the south where, [illegible] of their numerical superiority, they are very little under any influence except that of their own race. African [illegible] have also assured me that [illegible] the peculiarities of the savage of the jungle was his natural fondness for [illegible] and the harmonious. If [illegible] they be true, that negro influence has contributed to the soft, sweet voices of the southern women, then I [illegible] they have much to thank this race for besides the faithful service [illegible] has been rendered by them for so many generations."

A BOLD ASSERTION.

Ever since Prof. Koch startled the world by a promise to cure consumption with the Koch lymph, and his [illegible] failure to do so, the people have been looking for some discovery which would prove an absolute, certain cure for that dread disease. Over a quarter of a century ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, [illegible] for a medicine, which he had discovered and used, in his extensive practice, that would cure [illegible] per cent of all cases of consumption when taken in all its early stages. Time has proved that his assertion was [illegible] founded upon experience. His "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured many thousand people in all parts of the world, and Dr. Pierce invites all interested to send to him for a free book which gives the names, addresses and photographs of many prominent people who have willingly testified to the marvelous curative properties of his "Golden Medical Discovery." He has also written a Book of [illegible] pages on "Diseases of the Respiratory Organs," which treats of all forms of Bronchial and Lung [illegible] Asthma and Catarrh, that will be mailed by the World's Dispensary Medical Association of Buffalo, N. Y., on receipt of six cents in stamps, to pay postage.

Consumption, as most everybody knows, is at first manifested by feeble vitality, loss of strength, emaciation; then local symptoms soon develop, as cough, difficult breathing, or bleeding from lungs, when [illegible] that tubercular deposits [illegible] formed in the lungs. It is earnestly advised that the "Discovery" be taken early and the later stages of the disease can thereby be easily avoided.

To build up solid flesh and strength after the grip, pneumonia, ("lung fever"), exhausting fevers, and other prostrating diseases, it has no equal. It does not make fat like cod liver oil and its nasty compounds, but, solid, wholesome flesh.

Republicans will not have to go bargaining to organize the U. S. senate They can wait a year and have it very much their own way.

The Kansas City Journal argues that Senator Brice's condition is a most unhappy one, both of his states being carried overwhelmingly by the enemy.

The Findlay Republican advances the opinion that Doc Norton will come within about one hundred thousand votes of being the next railroad commissioner of Ohio.

The second volume of Sherman's book will be issued this week. As the Ohio election is over, it should not be expected that it will create half the comment the first publication received.

Gen. Martinez Campos refuses to fight the Cubans while the rains continue. If there are any rainmakers among the downtrodden Cubans they will see to it, of course, that the downpour continues.

Slowly but surely come the explanations of "what caused it," last Tuesday At this time it begins to look as though the various reasons for democratic defeat in Ohio will outnumber the democratic votes polled.

Silver men are talking of an independent party for the coming presidential race. They think they could carry the country. The matter is to be definitely decided soon at a conference to be held in Chicago.

The Fostoria newspapers have emerged from a hot political campaign and are uniting their energies to bring about the industrial advancement of their little city. It is the sensible thing to do and the action is worth emulating.

Upper Sandusky gamblers and lawbreakers have found a small streak of reform lying close to the spinal columns of the local officers. A number of arrests have been made, and the community doesn't know what to make of the unusual proceeding

During the campaign H. D. Dumm, of the democratic Upper Sandusky Union, lambasted the Brice senatorial candidacy unmercifully. The veteran editor was alone at that time, but he can now take the flattering unction to his soul of seeing nearly all his democratic brethren of the press justifying the bold stand he took by falling over themselves to get a whack at Brice

In the funeral oration delivered over the remains of the late Eugene Field Rev. Dr. Bristol made this suggestion for a monument for the beloved poet: "Some day, out in God's acre, when angels sing their 'Sleep, oh, Sleep,' a monument shall mark the resting place of our gentle poet, and it will be built as was Daniel de Foe's in London, by the loving, grateful contributions of the children of the land." The idea will be adopted, a committee of Chicago newspaper men having been appointed to receive contributions from the children of the country, which are to be without limitation. Any amount, no matter how small, will be accepted by the committee.

HERE AND THERE.

Great stacks of ridicule have been heaped upon the Erie railroad's "passenger depot" at Marion, and it is about time someone was saying a word in its defense. In mitigation of much that has been said and written and in contradiction of a general supposition, it should be denied that the corporation that has had control of the Erie has worked a corner in dirt and filth and stored it in its local depot. For instance, the Erie waiting room, being only about one-fifth the size of that furnished by the Big Four, contains only about one-fifth as much dirt, both being crowded to their full capacity and working overtime.

The spirit of friendly rivalry that obtains among cities of a certain class in point of population breaks out about election time. Then it is that estimates are made and controversies created. The votes cast for the heads of the tickets in the cities in our class as secured from our exchanges were as follows: Fremont 1,656, Bucyrus 1,520 Kenton 1,698 and Defiance 1,765. Calculating the population on a basis of 4½ to the voter and Fremont has 7,457, Bucyrus 6,840, Kenton 7,641, and Defiance 8,011. Fostoria polled 1,831 votes and on the same basis has a population of 8,239. And figures do not lie.—Fostoria Times.

Taking the same basis of figuring Marion does not appear to be in the above class. At the recent election this city polled 2678 votes for the heads of the tickets, which would indicate, by the same ratio, a population of 12,051. If you fellows have any other method of figuring population trot it out.

It seems generally conceded, since the votes were counted, that before Mr. Campbell's presidential boom is able to regain any popularity among the political smart set, it will have, to follow the eastern fad and give a few "invalid afternoons."

MARGARET BURDGE

Brings Suit Against George Burdge Other Court Matters.

Margaret Burdge by her attorneys, J. F. McNeal & Sons, today filed in the court of common pleas her petition against George Burdge, an insane person, and William J. Campbell, his guardian.

The plaintiff after setting up the insanity of defendant, George Burdge, and the appointment and qualification of William J Campbell as his guardian and the fact that said Burdge is now an inmate of the insane asylum at Columbus, seeks to recover a judgment on account for board, lodging and washing for the six years previous to Jan. 26, 1891, in the sum of $1401, with interest at 6 per cent, from May 29, 1895, the date of the presentation of said account to said guardian and of its rejection by him.

Owing to the serious illness of John Cunningham, the case of Cunningham against Carney, in the court of common pleas, was passed this morning and the jury was excused until next Thursday morning.

The Schilling Quartet have frequently appeared in concerts under my direction, and I am pleased to say that they have always been highly successful.

I am familiar with their work and have watched them in their progress during the past four years and am pleased to say that they rank among the best lady quartets. Their voices are all of a high order, and their methods are very artistic. [illegible]

IN THE DRUG STORE.

CHARACTER SKETCHES AT FOUNTAIN AND PRESCRIPTION DESK.

Funny Stories That Beat the Old Postage Stamp Joke—Tricks Played by Patrons as Well as by Clerks and Physicians. Some St. Louis Samples.

The time honored jokes in the funny papers about people who buy stamps in a drug store and want them wrapped up and delivered may be old to the average reader, but they are now every day to the drug dispensers. Such ridiculous things are every day occurrences.

A well known druggist tells of an instance when he was night clerk in a west end drug store. About 5 one morning a vigorous ring at the night bell roused him from peaceful slumbers. He came down wearing one shoe, such miscellaneous clothing as he could pick up in a hurry and a decidedly cross appearance. At the door was a nicely dressed lady. Would he kindly sell her a stamp? She had an important letter which she must mail, and as she also desired to catch the 6:30 train she feared she would forget it. The stamp was sold to her, and then very sweetly and innocently she inquired if he would not, since she was in such a hurry, walk to the corner and mail the letter for her. As he had worn only one shoe down he regretfully declined the honor.

The soda dispenser in the drug store usually sees and enjoys more peculiarities than any of the drug clerks from the fact that he is not bothered with any of their responsibilities. His greatest trouble is in deciding whose money he shall take in the case of young ladies who drink soda together. If it were men, each would be anxious to pay for the beverages. In the case of young ladies, however, each is apparently anxious not to pay for the drink. Then they argue with each other on about this line: "No, let me pay." "I will not. I think I should." "Oh, I'll be awful angry if you do." And all the while, says the soda dispenser, they are hanging on to their dimes with a deathlike grip. The soda man finally solves the problem by taking the money of each and returning the change to each, making it a "Cincinnati treat."

The proverbial joke about the man who winks his eye at the apothecary when he wants a "kick" in his soda is not a fiction. Various excuses are made to get liquor, but the standard and most usual is a terrible pain in the stomach or else a threatened chill. The druggist always suggests Jamaica ginger. This suggestion is never satisfactory, as it is whisky they want. A favorite trick is to ask for a dose of calisaya, which, to be thoroughly effective, must be mixed with whisky.

The "fiends" who make life miserable to the druggist are legion. They are fiends who are addicted to phenacetin, to bromo seltzer, to quinine, to arsenic, to strychnine and to morphine. There are also people who are addicted to the use of wine of cocoa. The drink contains a quantity of cocaine in solution and has a revivifying effect on the system. There are quinine fiends who take as much as 150 grains a day. Not long since a St. Louis physician prescribed this drug to a patient, ordering it to be put in six powders of 60 grains each. The patient, a lady, took it all in 24 hours, and, strange to say, got well. There are several people in St. Louis who are addicted to the use of aromatic spirits of ammonia and vichy. They drink it with great gusto.

The morphine fiend is a shrewd and discriminating buyer. One of the usual excuses when the fiend is a woman is that the drug is "for mamma." Poor mamma! She has many sins to answer for of which she is guiltless. Some of the fiends can tell the brand of morphine by the taste and will have none but their favorite. One hopeless case has become so expert on the quantity that he usually takes—three grains—that with a dash of the bottle he can throw the exact quantity into the palm of his hand. The druggist with whom he usually deals has verified the weight of the dose thus prepared many times and invariably finds it correct to a fraction of a grain.

The drug store is a favorite place for leaving bundles, valises, etc. Many of the packages left are never called for. A lady left a bundle in an Olive street establishment a year ago that contained two dozen suits of underwear and has never returned for them. At the same drug store a well dressed man left his valise, containing clothing, papers, a shaving set and many miscellaneous articles, and never came back. The strangest case of the kind was a man who left his wife at a downtown store about 9 o'clock, promising to return in ten minutes. At 10 o'clock, closing time, he had not returned, so the druggist sat up with her to wait for him, not caring to [illegible] on the street. STORIES OF THE DAY.

How Chauncey M. Depew Got Lost In New York City.

The clubmen and frequenters of the up town hotels in New York are gossiping over what they call "the weak spot in the armor of Chauncey M. Depew's strong personality." They say that, although the genial president of the New York Central railroad has lived in that city for many years and was supposed to know its business streets by heart, he is in the habit of getting lost in them. The story arose from the fact that Mr. Depew has been seen in Broadway in the evening on several occasions searching vainly for some hotel where a dinner was to be given, and at which he had been asked to make one of his famous after dinner speeches.

One evening recently the Sons of the American Revolution gave a dinner at the Hotel Normandie, Broadway and Thirty-eighth street, and among the most prominent guests invited was Mr. Depew. About 8:30 a tall, handsome man, with gray hair and side whiskers, faultlessly dressed in evening attire, strolled into the office of the Marlborough hotel, at Broadway and Thirty-sixth street, and asked to be shown to the apartment where the Sons of the American Revolution were meeting. The urbane clerk behind the desk said he knew of no special dinner in the hotel that night unless it was in parlor B. He then called a colored servant to show Mr. Depew to the apartment. Mr. Depew gazed in through the door at the party in parlor B for a moment, and failing to recognize anybody there said to the colored servant: "I guess that is not the party I am looking for. There are not 100 there. There should be 100 gentlemen in the party. Are they the Sons of the American Revolution?"

"I am sure I dunno, sah," replied the servant. "I dunno whose sons they are."

Mr. Depew went back to the hotel office and told the clerk that the people in parlor B were not those he was looking for. "It's very strange," he continued. "The Sons of the American Revolution were certainly to meet at the Hotel Normandie tonight."

"But this is not the Hotel Normandie," replied the clerk.

"It is not!" exclaimed Mr. Depew in a surprised tone of voice. "Well, what hotel is it, then?"

"It is the Marlborough hotel," answered the clerk.

Mr. Depew waited to hear no more, but started out to find the Hotel Normandie. The hotel is at Broadway and Thirty-eighth street, two blocks above the Marlborough. Mr. Depew passed its hospitable doors, however, and went as far as the Empire theater. The ticket speculators spied him and immediately tried to sell him a seat to see the performance. "Fine seat—three rows back—one an half," said one of them.

Mr. Depew waved them off, however, and walked away. A few moments later he entered the office of the Hotel Normandie and was quickly shown to the room where the Sons of the American Revolution were at dinner. As he entered the banquet hall he was greeted with a burst of applause which could be plainly heard out in Broadway, and fully convinced everybody that the great speechmaker had at last found the place he was looking for.

When the clerks at the Normandie heard of Mr Depew's adventure, they laughed heartily and said that on a previous occasion Mr. Depew had made the same mistake when looking for the hotel.

Mr. Depew has also had, by all accounts, considerable difficulty in locating the different theatres. His friends tell a good story of an attempt he made one night to witness the performance of Camille D'Arville. This actress was playing in "A Daughter of the Revolution" at the Broadway theater, and Mr. Depew engaged a box for himself and a party of friends. About 8 o'clock in the evening he piloted the party along Broadway in quest of the theater. They came to Abbey's theater, where Lillian Russell was then appearing nightly in "The Tzigane."

"Here we are," said Mr. Depew as he led the way in. When he reached the box office, however, the man in charge said he was sorry, but he had no boxes left.

"Why, how is that?" asked Mr. Depew. "I engaged a box early tonight at [illegible]."

The argument which followed waxed somewhat warm until the clerk discovered that Mr. Depew thought he was in the Broadway theater. Explanations and apologies then followed, and soon Mr. Depew and his party were comfortably seated in a box at the Broadway, enjoying the performance.—New York Tribune.

JOE TORRENCE OF CHICAGO.

Blacksmith, Soldier, Railroad King and Owner of a $10,000 Overcoat.

No matter whether whipping mobs single handed or buying $10,000 overcoats, building railroads or tooling tally-hos, dispensing cold bottles or extracting Confederate bullets from his legs General Joe Torrence of Chicago is always picturesque and interesting. Whenever the Chicago newspapers are short of "copy" they fall back upon Torrence, and he never fails them. He is anything but commonplace. He is original. If he is followed closely, he is good for half a column every day, and just now his new $10,000 overcoat is the Torrence sensation of the hour. This wonderful garment is lined with about forty skins of Russian sable, one of the most costly furs in the market, and is probably the costliest overcoat ever made. This fact, however, does not worry General Torrence. He is worth millions and is not losing sight of the fact that he cannot take them with him when he dies.

Torrence, despite his weakness for such finery as $10,000 overcoats, is a man of marked ability. He began life as a blacksmith, but his strong arms and active brain have made him many times a millionaire. He was born in the Connellsville district of Pennsylvania in 1843 and has made his way in life since he was 12 years old. He learned the blacksmith trade as a mere boy and went to the front as a member of the One Hundred and Fifth Ohio volunteer infantry when but 17. Even then he was of imposing height and was made a noncommissioned officer, although a stranger to every one in the regiment. At the battle of Perryville, Ky., he was so conspicuous that he quite unintentionally stopped four Confederate bullets, one of which he carried 30 years and finally cut from his leg with a lance while an attendant surgeon stood by and marveled at his pluck.

GENERAL JOSEPH T. TORRENCE

Torrence's wounds caused him to be honorably discharged from the service, but when Morgan raided Ohio Torrence was commander of one of the numerous bodies of troops which pursued and captured him. After the war he became an expert on rolling and handling iron works and located in Chicago in 1869. He has made a fortune in steel works, railroads and other vast enterprises. One of his greatest successes is the Chicago Elevated Railway Terminal company. During the anarchist riots he was in command of all the troops in Chicago. He is thoroughly at home in quelling disorder and has twice defeated a mob single handed, it is said.

That Sum to Be Expended For a New Presbyterian Publishing House.

The new building that will soon be erected in Philadelphia by the Presbyterian board of publication and Sabbath school work will be a colossal structure of granite and terra cotta, towering ten stories in the air and occupying a site at the northwest corner of Walnut and Juniper streets, 235 feet long and 75 feet wide. The work will call for the expenditure of $525,000, and when it is completed the Presbyterian board will be the proud possessor of the most complete structure of the kind in the country, it is said. Besides furnishing accommodations for the board of publication and Sabbath school work and a very handsome room for the use of the general assembly the building will have 150 strictly up to date offices for rent. The structure will be heated by steam

FOOTBALL AS PLAYED TODAY.

Harmful and Demoralizing to Students and Leads All Sports In Fatalities.

So far as the brutality of football is concerned there can no longer be two sides to the question, writes Edward W. Bok in Ladies' Home Journal. The most uncompromising advocates of the game have conceded this fact. If one game of college football differs from another it is purely and simply in its degree of brutality. How disastrous and fatal were these displays last year will be brought home more directly to people when by carefully computed figures it is shown that 16 deaths resulted last year from collegiate games of football within a short period of four months. No record has, of course, been kept of broken ears, lost visions and other disarrangements. As a matter of fact, there is no sport practiced by any civilized nation which can equal a record of 16 deaths in four months.

When we regard the effects upon the player, we meet a condition of things equally serious. Leaving the physical injuries entirely out of the question, the game of football, as it is played today, is an absolute detriment to the mental development of those who participate in it. I have, during the past six months, been at some pains to carefully inquire into the class standings of the men who comprise college football teams, and the results were interesting. In two cases I found that the majority of the football players stood among the lowest in their classes, while in the other two instances this same fact was true of one-half of the members of the teams.

Furthermore, the so called "fame" which is bestowed upon these college football players is directly injurious. Their lives are exploited, their portraits are printed, their every movement is chronicled until the subjects are made to feel a prominence which is at once preposterous and absurd. Before a boy is half out of his fitting school he is spoiled with a misplaced importance of himself and a mistaken "fame," the evil effects of which he carries with him through his life.

Nor is the effect on other students a wholesome one. It requires a strongly balanced mind, such as is rarely given to a growing boy, for a young man to pursue a craving for knowledge when all around him he hears nothing but football talk and sees the men next to him become the talk of the country. It strikes for him, at the very outset of his career, a false note.

A Missionaries' Museum.

One of the most interesting museums in Boston has been removed to Hartford—the museum of curiosities collected during 60 years by the missionaries of the American board, and for many years displayed in cabinets in a little side room in the Congregational House. The collection is to be deposited in the library of the Hartford Theological seminary, and Boston will know it no more.

Many of the objects were worthless only from a sentimental point of view—pebbles from Palestine, bits of wood or stone broken from temples and the like—but others were of the greatest rarity, interest and scientific value, and some were unique. There were little idols from India, models illustrating life and manufacture in China or Japan, and savage arms and implements from the south seas. Unlike many similar objects seen nowadays, they were genuine "documents" of savage or barbarous life before it had been touched and influenced by western civilization. To the ethnographer they were invaluable.

Particularly interesting were the idols and curiosities from the Sandwich Islands, all of them obtained by the earlier missionaries. They included the great idol of the Hawaiian war god, one of the most interesting things in its way ever brought to America. The Hawaiian portion of the collection was not sent to Hartford, but, through the influence of Mr. Gorham D. Gilman, the Hawaiian consul in Boston, it has gone to enrich the Bishop museum of Hawaiian antiquities in Honolulu.—Boston Herald

Fruit as Medicine.

Why for ages have people eaten apple sauce with their roast goose and sucking pig? Simply because the acids and pectones in the fruit assist in digesting the fat so abundant in this kind of food. For the same reason at the end of a heavy dinner we eat our cooked fruits, and when we want their digestive action even more developed, we have them after dinner in their natural, uncooked state as dessert. In the past ages instinct has taught men to do this; today science tells them why they did it, and this same science tells us that fruit should be eaten as an aid to digestion of other foods much more than it is now. Cultivated fruits, such as apples, pears, cherries, strawberries, grapes, etc., contain on analysis very similar proportions of the same ingredients, which are about 1 per cent of malic and other acids and 1 per cent of flesh forming albuminoids, with about 80 per cent of water.

Digestion of foods depends upon the action of pepsin in the stomach upon the food, which is greatly aided by the acids of the stomach. Fruits are digested by these acids [illegible]. Now, the acids [illegible] in fruit [illegible] the stomach. Only lately [illegible] lemon [illegible] has been prescribed [illegible] weak digestion [illegible]—Popular Science Monthly.

MILITARY HONORS

PAID THE REMAINS OF JOHN BEBOUT, SABBATH

The Members of Company G and the Employes of the Steam Shovel Company Out in Full Force—Rev. A. J. Wiant Officiated at the Church.

The funeral services over the remains of the late John Bebout occurred at the State Street Baptist church, Sabbath morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. A. J. Wiant officiating.

For some years Rev. Wiant has been looked upon by the family of the deceased as one of their warmest and dearest friends and hence his selection to administer the last sad rites.

Rev. Wiant's sermon was most appropriate and thrillingly touching and had its effect upon the large attendance within and without the little church.

At the conclusion of the church ceremony the line of march was formed and the procession started for the cemetery. The People's band, playing appropriate music, came first immediately followed by a drum corps. Company G came next following which came a long line of those who had been fellow workmen of the deceased in his lifetime at the works of the Steam Shovel company, after which, in turn, came the minister's turnout and the hearse.

The casket was draped with the stars and stripes and was surrounded by the floral tributes of the Steam Shovel and Company G boys and of individual friends.

Privates Brady, Stump, Hinds, Heminger, Hudson and Jordan acted as pall bearers and, in all ways, both in the line of march and at the cemetery, it was a distinctly military funeral.

Rolla C. Perry bade adieu to Marion friends today and left for Columbus, from which city he leaves this week for Western Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California. Rolla will try that southwestern climate for a recuperation of his health, and scores of Marion friends earnestly wish him a complete recovery.

Last Friday night, in spite of the inclemency of the weather, the Imperial Club and their ladies agreeably surprised Edwin Abel at his home on north Prospect street, the occasion being the birthday of this member of the club. Many harmless amusements were indulged in, followed by an old-time taffy-pull.

A Little Bad Business.

There was a row in the rooms over the Vestibule this morning between 1 and 2 o'clock. The trouble was the result of settling over a game of cards, the proprietor keeping back $5 from one of his patrons to satisfy an alleged prior claim. The patron did not see it in that light and struck the owner of the place several times. In the melee the customer broke his hand and was obliged to go to a doctor to have it dressed.

Marshal Blain heard of the matter this morning and at once began investigations, leaving no stone unturned to get to the bottom of it. He says that there must be a stop put to such business as it is going entirely too far.

REV. ALBRITTON ACQUITTED.

The Presiding Elder is Exonerated After an Official Church Trial.

Rev. J. I. Albritton presiding elder of the Toledo district of the Central Ohio Methodist conference, was tried last week by a committee of seven on the charges preferred against him, and was unanimously acquitted of every charge and specification. The Albritton matter will be recalled in connection with the conference session in this city. Last week matters came to a climax by summoning an official church investigating committee. Rev. Hillman, of this city, was one of the jury. The trial was held in Toledo with four ministers managing the prosecution, while Rev. Albritton had a counsel of four to defend. There were four specifications under the charge of immoral conduct and as many specifications under the charge of uttering falsehoods. A whole week of testimony and argument ended in an absolutely unanimous acquittal on every specification to each charge. Every charge against him fell flat when the searchlight of investigation was turned upon them.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Rev. C. B. Crawford, of Lima, preached at St. Paul's Episcopal church both Sabbath morning and evening to large congregations.

Both of the speaker's sermons were powerful in their eloquence and delivered after that manner which denotes the true artist.

The subject of the morning discourse was "The Power of Association," and the text was taken from Romans 14: 17. "None of us liveth to himself." The text for the evening was taken from Mark 4: 28. "First the blade, then the ear; after that the full corn in the ear."

Rev. John L. Hillman preached at the Epworth M. E. church both morning and evening, Sabbath, and his addresses were heard by large congregations at both meetings.

The morning text was "Now ye have consecrated yourselves this day unto the Lord," and from that he preached a magnificent sermon which was most truly appreciated by his hearers.

In the evening Mr. Hillman took his text from Jeremiah 36:23. "And it came to pass that when Jehudi had read three or four leaves he cut it with the penknife, and cast it into the fire that was on the hearth, until all the roll was consumed in the fire that was on the hearth."

Regular services were held both Sabbath morning and evening at the First Baptist church.

There were the regular services at the State Street Baptist church Sabbath evening, the morning hour being taken up with the funeral services over the remains of John Bebout.

BURT FORTNEY BREAKS INTO THE WRONG SALOON SUNDAY

He Tries To Run Joseph Roseman's Place of Business, but Is a Failure—Roseman Chases Him With a Gun, but the Saloonist's Aim Was Bad.

Joseph Roseman, who conducts a saloon on north Main street, runs his own house.

Proof of this was made Sunday forenoon when Burt Fortney attempted to break into the house and run things to suit himself. Mr Roseman, who was not acquainted with Fortney, was in his place of business during the forenoon Fortney tried to get in. The door was not opened and then Fortney broke off the latch and walked in. Mr Roseman caught hold of Fortney and deliberately threw him out. Fortney then started out to do the town. He went over to Jacob Weber's place and abused him but left without causing any trouble. He then returned to Roseman's and going up the alley attempted to break into the side door.

Roseman started after him and Fortney ran. The saloon keeper followed and with his revolver attempted to get his man. He fired at him but missed the fleeing Fortney, who ran on up the alley, and turning came out on Main street.

Marshal Blain was called and locked him up. He is still in prison and will be given a hearing when 'Squire McKinley, who is acting mayor, returns from a hunting trip.

There is now a thirty-days' sentence hanging over Fortney's head. He was arrested for abusing his wife, Lottie Ferguson, and sentenced to the workhouse, but on the promise that he would not live with her again the sentence was suspended.

Larry Powers Robbed.

Larry Powers was held up Saturday night. Larry had been home and was coming down street at an early hour in the evening, and in passing the alley near Vail's some one struck him over the head and knocked him down. He says he does not know how long he lay there, but when he got up he had an awful lump on his head and was minus about three dollars.

Larry had the lump on his head as evidence of the fact that he had been struck, and is positive that he knows who did the striking.

AFTER THE BURKES.

A MAD MAN TRIES TO DO THEM SERIOUS HARM

Peter Haley, Who Was Recently Adjudged Insane and Sent to the Asylum, Turns Up—He Makes a Murderous Slash at Tom Burke.

Peter Haley is again in the custody of the officers. He is the unfortunate young man who was adjudged insane some time ago, but escaped from the asylum and came back to Marion. The officers from the asylum came after him but he had not arrived at that time, and after he reached Marion the case was not pushed against him and he was allowed to remain here, though he is a desperate man and twice came near causing death by his rash actions. Friday he acted queer and came near being run over by an Erie train. He jumped on the side of a car and swung under, but escaped unhurt.

Sunday on coming up street in the afternoon he saw Will Burke, proprietor of the Elk saloon. This enraged him and he rushed across the street after him and struck at his head. Will, however, was on his guard and when Haley began to pull of his coat he struck him, knocking the crazy man down. Then followed a struggle in which Burke managed to keep the upper hand of Haley and ordered him arrested, but this was not done, and Officer Cleveland walked away after things had quieted down.

Haley in the meantime went home and coming up street at about 5 o'clock met Tom Burke. Without a word of warning Haley drew a razor and struck Burke with it, cutting a gash in the side of his neck and knocked him down. Tom saw that he had a razor and got out of his way as quickly as possible. Haley then went down north Main street in search of other of the Burke boys. In the meantime a crowd had gathered and an effort had to be made to arrest the lunatic, who still held the open razor in his hand. Marshal Blain quietly walked up to him and Haley said that he would give him no trouble and walked quietly on with him At the jail, however, a struggle ensued, and Haley came near besting the officers, but they were too much for him and he was searched and locked up. In the rush and excitement on north Main street Tom Burke knocked a fellow down and Haley tried to get at Will McGraw, and a number of others came near being mixed up in the trouble at the jail, but the man was quieted before he could injure anyone, although he has sworn vengeance on his enemies.

Haley seems to have had it in for the Burkes. He attacked Ed Burke just before he was sent to the asylum and Sunday did not seem to show any choice in which of the brothers he tackled.

At the jail ex-Policeman Masterson was called and assisted in getting him in. He simply wanted to get at the Burkes. When he first tackled William Burke, Haley was told to stay away from him. Mr. Burke says that he noticed Haley come across the street, and before that having taken stones away from Burt Fortney and another fellow, and then came after him.. Mr. Burke was aware of his condition and did not want to strike him, but was obliged to do so for protection. An officer from the asylum came up today and returned with Haley.

A certain farmer who was by no means noted for his resemblance to Apollo had a son of 6 or 7 who had more wit than pedigree.

One day a stranger came to the farm, and, seeing the lad, asked, "Sonny, where's your father?"

"In the pigpen," was the reply.

"In the pigpen? Thanks!" and as the man moved in the direction indicated l'enfant terrible shouted: "I say! You'll know him 'cause he's got his hat on!"

Referring TO A RICH MAN'S Large Income

THEY say "he has money to burn." That's the way with a good many drygoods buyers. They must have money to burn or they would not pay $4.00 for all-wool home-made Blankets that we sell at $2.75. Yes, it's really a fact, we've compared two blankets—our's at $2.75, just as good as other blankets at $4.00. That's why we advertise prices 30 to 50 per cent. less.

Our Extremely Low Prices

Are not confined to this one priced blanket by no means—just as low in prices for $3.50 all-wool blankets. You would be amazed to see the kinds we are selling at $4.00, if you pay $5.00, $6.00 or $7.00 you get the value heretofore $8.00, $10.00 and $12.00.

The same low prices again in fine Dress Goods. The average lady will buy for $2.50 to $5.00 what was $5.00 to $9.00 last season.

Don't just read our advertisements—ask your neighbors if they know anything about these low prices at D. A. Frank & Co.'s You'll hardly look out of your window but you'll see some one who has our dress goods or wraps. They paid all we asked and saved enough to step to our millinery department and get a hat.

Our Way of Business--

Get in our store the best values to be found on earth. One of the greatest things we've done this season is to sell a $1.50 black or colored Pique Kid Glove at $1.00. We warrant and fit them—fit is right, too.

Gentlemen as well as Ladies

Have found where bargains in Underwear are. The Jersey Fleeced for gentlemen [illegible] good, heavy, well made one we sell is.
